Summer Term S.T.C. Begins This Week

Enrollment Expected to Reach Mark; President Lamkin to Speak at First Assembly This Morning at 10:40 o'Clock

ACTIVITIES PLANNED

With enrollment still in process yesterday, the annual Summer session at the College got under this week with every indication it may be the largest, as far as enrollment is concerned, quarter of year.

Enrollment at 6 o'clock Tuesday evening—the regular registration stood at 701, but a great number of students were enrolling yesterday and it was expected that by late-registration dead-line at 10 o'clock last night that the student body would stand over 800 strong. At least a normal enrollment was expected here. The number of enrollees who "had passed through the gate" at noon Tuesday was 290, the largest number up to that time for several years.

Classes met yesterday morning, the first meetings holding session at 10 o'clock. The first assembly program, originally scheduled for 10:40 o'clock yesterday morning, will be held today at the same hour, it was announced yesterday by President Uel W. Lamkin. President Lamkin will deliver the first Summer assembly address.

Registration for the primary, elementary and high schools held in connection with the College is being held today. The faculties of these departments have been chosen and will be announced in The Missourian next week.

Students Invited to Attend Writers' Club Meetings Here

Group to Furnish Original Manuscripts for Publication in The Writer's Nook, Paper Feature

The College Writer's Club, organization of students interested in creative writing, will meet at 7:30 o'clock next Monday evening in Recreation Hall, it was announced this week by Alex Sawyer, Maysville, president of the group. All Summer term students interested in joining the club are invited to attend this meeting.

The Club will continue the sponsorship of "The Writer's Nook," column of original manuscripts, which has been a feature of The Northwest Missourian for the past three months. The first column for the Summer term will appear in next Thursday's paper.

An editorial which appeared in the March 10 edition of The Missourian, follows:

"We agree with the critics who maintain that writing is an art. Is journalism an art? We will not argue the question. We do need good journalism, there is no question about that. We must confess, however, that there are probably many students on our campus who are not consciously interested in any kind of journalism, good or bad. Rightly, or wrongly, it suggests nothing more than 'reporting' to them. Journalism, to them, is not an art.

"The Northwest Missourian realizes that there are many students on the campus who are interested in purely creative writing. We are anxious to encourage these students.

"We have on the campus an organization whose chief interest is the encouragement of creative writing. Beginning with this issue, we shall cooperate with the Writer's Club in publishing, on this page, manuscripts which reach a certain standard of excellence. Poems, short (Continued on page 3)

A New Quarter.

This week begins the annual ten-weeks' Summer Session at the College. Students from this entire section of the country and from the entire United States last Tuesday enrolled for scholastic pursuits to continue throughout five weeks or throughout the entire ten-weeks term.

Indeed the new quarter is new to many in several respects. In the first place, practically the entire student body is different from that of the regular fall-winter-spring term; that is, the greater number of those winter students are now vacationing, while those experienced in the educational field take their places in the classrooms here.

Seven o'clock classes are entirely new to students who may not have attended Summer session before. The class schedule is also new to students who have attended the College only during the regular winter term. Class bells ring on the hour during the regular term, but during the Summer, they seem to ring "just any time."

In several respects the faculty is new to many students attending their first summer session. In several departments, new instructors have been employed for the Summer and are now actively engaged in carrying out their respective tasks.

New students, new faculty, new schedule—everything that is new this quarter—THE NORTHWEST MISSOURIAN, the progressive College's progressive newspaper, extends its most sincere welcome. This quarter should be one of the greatest of the entire year, for when experienced persons get together—in classrooms or out—problems are exchanged and discussed and many times solved, all of which should go for the betterment of American education in future years.

General Courses Supported

At the College here several years ago the administration initiated into the curriculum the idea of general courses for the purpose of giving those who enter the teaching field a broader concept and knowledge of liberal arts. The four general courses, social sciences, physical sciences, humanities and biological sciences which have been put into the curriculum for the Bachelor of Science in Education students have been hailed as great aids and successes.

Since our own College president announced that the general courses would be installed here, several colleges throughout the nation have announced the same thing. Columbia university, with its Teachers College, has even gone so far as to announce a new five-year program in order to remove the barriers to a broad liberal education which, as a result of the rigid requirements of the states, have hampered the training of secondary school teachers.

Dean Herbert E. Hawkes, who announced the change, said the new plan will provide students with greater opportunity for the study of the liberal arts, and will enable them to work on a broader front when they enter the field of secondary school teaching. "Teachers no longer occupy watertight compartments in which they are restricted to a narrow field of scholarship. Rather, they must be prepared to function in fields other than those of their greatest interest, and to cooperate in the administration of the school curriculum as a whole."

Insanity from Fast Living.

Many people have asked the question: "Are we going insane?" The answer, judging from certain statistics, apparently would be "yes."

Recent statistics in the United States indicate that there is a gradual but definite increase in the proportionate number of lunatics over the proportionate number of births. In Los Angeles county, California, two out of every 100 persons are in insane hospitals, not including those in private and public homes.

At the Norwalk state hospital in Los Angeles in 1916, 104 patients were admitted. The present population of that hospital is 2629, while capacity of the state insane asylum is 1718. All of the seven such institutions in the state of California are just as overcrowded.

In the past twenty-five years, hospitals of that sort have increased more than twice in number and in bed capacity. Outstanding scientists and psychologists of today give as their reason for the mounting population in insane hospitals the fact that we are living too fast. Worry and ill-health have been caused by modern high-speed inventions and entertainment. The theory, apparently, of those scientists is: "The faster we live, the faster we go crazy."

Men Who Plan Now.

It is strange. But it happens so often that it must be a response to something basic in human nature. In so-called hard times, when many businessmen forlornly complain that "there is no business," other businessmen contrive to find business; and, what is perhaps still more astonishing, new enterprises put down roots, get a healthy start, make sturdy beginnings of vigorous growth.

Is it that the business "downs" have special purposes which many of us, blinded by easy success in more prosperous periods, fail to see and use?

According to an editorial in a recent issue of the Rotarian magazine, the late Edward A. Filene, a merchant of Boston, Mass., whose thinking was never bounded by national borders, once said: "I have noticed that business success tends to breed business failure. Success often makes men contented; lessens incentive. It is when people are not doing very well with what they already have that they are most willing to listen to and try out new ideas that may save them."

A certain chewing-gum manufacturer, a great believer in advertising, undertook one of his most impressive advertising campaigns during a time of severe business stringency. His competitors were cutting down, or cutting out, their advertising. He reasoned that with fewer advertisements seeking reader attention, his own aggressive copy would attract all the more notice; and it worked out exactly that way.

Great industrial improvements have been made, or initiated, in periods far from prosperous. Charles E. Duryea, first to build a successful gasoline automobile in the United States, began his first car in 1891, was building his fifth in 1894, the Rotarian editorial points out. Between those two years the country was passing through one of the worst panics ever known. The basic work on the first successful telephone was done by Alexander Graham Bell in the early '70's, when the United States was rocked by the post-Civil War panic. Instances of this kind, great or small, could be multiplied almost endlessly, but more to the point would be the personal parallel many a reader may draw as he recalls when he was so hard put to it that, to survive, he had to do strenuous new thinking and make drastic revisions of unprofitable habits—which revealed hitherto untapped potentialities that proved his salvation... and more.

The editorial points out that men who plan constructively now, may find that these so-called troubled times, viewed in the light of what they can do for us instead of what they appear to be doing to us, will yield magic returns.

At the Theaters

AT THE MISSOURI

Thursday, Friday, Saturday, a double feature—Gene Autrey in "Old Barn Dance," and Gene Raymond, Olympe Bradna in "Stolen Heaven," a story of jewel thieves who hide in a forest and find the house of a formerly great musician, this man, played by Lewis Stone, presents a view of life that they never knew existed. The result is a new outlook on life by the jewel thieves and a fine picture for the audience. "Stolen Heaven" is the combination of drama and sentiment, with unusually good results.

Starting Saturday night 10:45—Loretta Young, Richard Greene, C. Aubrey Smith, David Niven, William Henry and George Sanders in "Four Men and a Prayer." One of the most amazing stories Cosmopolitan magazine ever printed. The story is concerned with four sons faith in their father's honor, and this faith led them into many dangerous situations to prove the innocence of their father (C. Aubrey Smith) who was dismissed with dishonor from the (British) army. John Ford directs this story of four brothers in a quest which mocks at death.

AT THE TIVOLI

Tonight—Leslie Howard, Bette Davis, Olivia deHavilland in "It's Love I'm After." Leslie Howard plays a matinee idol, Bette Davis his leading lady. Each tries to steal the show and their whispered admonitions are better than the lines that get across the footlights. They would like to love each other except for their competition in scene-stealing. Olivia deHavilland is cast as a young heiress infatuated with Howard. In the end Miss Davis' wiles show the heiress Howard is not her type.

Friday and Saturday, double feature—Glenda Farrell, Barton MacLane in "Adventurous Blonde" and "Rolling Caravans" story of the frontiersmen.

Owl show Saturday and Sunday, Monday, Tuesday—"Start Cheering," starring Jimmy Durante, Walter Connolly, Joan Perry, Professor Quiz, the Three Stooges, Hal LeRoy. With such an outstanding cast it is a great musical comedy type of show. Incidentally the "Big Apple" is danced in this by 200 boys and girls. Three of the stars in this show got their first big boost in the Ziegfeld Follies. They are Jimmy Durante, Gertrude Niesen and Hal LeRoy.

Filipino Girls Plan Summer Vacation

can students seemed a bit unusual to Miss Benitez, but she said: "My mother and father are teachers, so I guess it's up to me to be one too." She plans to receive the B. S. degree at the end of next Winter term with a major in English and a minor in social science, her underclass work in those subjects being done at the University in Manila.

Both Misses Benitez and Santos intend to receive the B. S. degree at the end of next Winter quarter.

Leni to California

Summer means vacation time to Lenora (Leni) Alano, who left this week with the home economics group from the College for Santa Barbara, Calif., where the group will attend the national home economics conclave in that city. During August, the three women from the islands will make a trip to Canada, and thus fulfilling a desire they have held since arriving in the States last fall.

Gloria Santos will graduate next Winter with a major in commerce and economics and a minor in English. She has done the greater part of her work in the University of Manila, doing most of her work in business administration there. She has also worked in business administration since coming to the College.

Enjoy American Dances

The three Filipino women enjoy the customs of the Americans, they said recently. They enjoy American dances and stated that the rumba and tango, familiar dances in the Islands, are seldom seen in this country.

The States are a great deal like the Islands, the students reported, stating that "they should be—we're all one country." The only disappointment which the three have had since coming to the United States is that they did not see the heavy snow and blizzards which students in the College told them they would see. They also expected a hot spring, but stated that "a good deep snow would have made up for the cold and unpleasantness of the spring."

Filipinos Are Talented

The three Filipino women are talented in different fields, and have been outstanding in those fields since coming to the College. Leni is the artist, dancer and musician of the group, but at the same time she is interested in volley ball, soccer and baseball.

Jeanie is the poet of the group, having won first place in the poetry contest in a recent Missouri Inter-collegiate Newspaper Association contest held at the University of Missouri for state college newspapers. Her poem, which appeared in "The Writer's Nook," the College Writers' Club column in The Northwest Missourian, was entitled "Girl from the Tropics."

Gloria, who is interested in "the practical side of things," has been interested in all activities of the College. She takes part in English and commercial activities here.

Philippines Wish Freedom

The three women have traveled a great deal over northwest Missouri and southwest Iowa since coming to the College. They have met many persons and have spoken to various groups on subjects familiar to them in the Islands.

The Filipino students have said ever since they arrived here that the Philippine Islands desire their independence from the United States. They have stated that it was natural for any nation to wish for freedom.

Students Invited to Attend Writers Club

stories, essays—any kind of writing that has a literary flavor—will be welcomed. Any student with ability to write may contribute. A committee of competent critics will select manuscripts for publication. All manuscripts not accepted will be returned on demand.

"Here is an opportunity for students interested in creative writing to practice their art. We hope that this new feature will prove popular with our readers. Do we have any potential Sandburgs, Poes or Emersons in good old M. S. T. C.?"

Manuscripts for publication in The Missourian should be turned in to either Alex Sawyer or Lurline Stevens, secretary of the Writer's Club.

Mr. Dwight Dorrough of the College English faculty, is sponsor of the Writer's Club. The Club will meet once each week at 7:30 o'clock on Monday evenings in Recreation Hall.

into two five-week periods, the first ending July 1 and the second ending August 4. Some classes run throughout the entire ten weeks, while others run for only five weeks and meet twice daily.

A large percentage of the Summer quarter enrollees are teachers from the field who have come to the College to do work toward their Bachelor's degree or to do post-graduate work. Many students who attended in the regular fall-winter-spring term, however, have returned for scholastic pursuits this summer.

More all-school social functions have been planned by the College administration for this summer, it was announced here this week. Due to the fact that social organizations are inactive on the campus during the Summer session, fewer social activities are held.

The assembly schedule for the Summer term has been almost completed. For the program next week, the College will present an address by Dr. Peter Dykema.

Missouri First to Sign World Fair Contract subsistence, lodging and transportation.

President Lamkin announced that along the proposed route to the New York Fair, tours are planned for Washington, D. C., New York City, Norfolk, Richmond and Charlottesville, Va. The group will make an extensive tour of Arlington cemetery and Radio City, Chinatown, buildings, art museums, Jack Dempsey's restaurant and other places of interest in New York City.

First to Sign Contract

According to the official New York World's Fair Bulletin issued recently, Missouri was the first state to adopt legislation providing for participation and first state to sign a contract for space. Measures by the Missouri legislature created fifteen member commissions and allocated $225,000 for both the San Francisco and New York fairs.

The contract for a 20,000-square-foot building plot was signed by Governor Lloyd C. Stark, who visited the Fair site accompanied by members of the commission. In addition to the state appropriation, it is expected that private enterprise in Missouri will contribute as much again, bringing the total investment in the New York World's Fair to approximately $250,000.

To Portray Industries

Missouri's exhibits will portray all of the varied industries, professions, occupations and resources of the state, with particular reference to recreational features, wild life, the fur trade, mining and agriculture. Architectural designs for the Missouri Building at the Fair already have been approved by the board of designs.

Missouri Commissioners

Missouri's commission members are: Senator Albert M. Clark, Richmond, chairman; Tom K. Smith, St. Louis, vice-chairman; R. E. L. Marrs, Carthage, secretary; Senators Michael Kinney, St. Louis; M. E. Casey, Kansas City; Allen McReynolds, Carthage, and Charles O. Roberson, Rock Port; Speaker J. G. Christy, Festus; Robert M. Talbert, Cape Girardeau; John D. Taylor, Keytesville; William B. Weakley, Clarksville; Dr. C. E. Still, Kirksville; H. B. McDaniel, Springfield; William Albrecht, St. Louis; Charles L. Aylward, Kansas City and ex-officio, Dr. H. A. Beuhler of Rolla.

Persons who are interested in the 1939 trip may secure further information from either President Uel W. Lamkin or Mr. Roy Ferguson, at the College.

TO ATTEND BOYS' STATE

Jack Garrett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Garrett and a senior year in College high school, attend the Boys' State youth movement sponsored by the American Legion for a week this month at Fulton. The Boys' State is a school of instruction in various governmental units of Missouri and is a project of the Legion. Mr. H. Garrett is a member of the science faculty at the College.
